The village La Campana has a medieval origin, but it took its current shape in the seventeenth century, when the Sienese Tolomei family of bankers built the master's villa with the chapel and enlarged the village. The buildings have recently been restored and now you can enjoy a relaxing stay here, surrounded by the splendid landscape of the Crete Senesi, by the art and history of this unforgettable corner of Tuscany and by the oeno-gastronomic delights of this region, among which the white truffle stands out. Every apartment, furnished in Tuscan style, has an independent entrance and a private shaded external space or terrace, equipped with tables and chairs for eating al fresco. All the kitchens in the apartments and in the villa are equipped with cookers, oven, dishwasher, fridge and freezer.
