Once a mussel farm, today famed for its marina, Pomer lies in a well-protected part of Medulin Bay. The marina provides 250 berths and 50 boat places on land, together with all necessary facilities. Not far from the marina, at the very seaside surrounded by pine trees stretches the newly renovated campsite with its own football field and volleyball court. There is also private accommodation in apartments and rooms. In summer folk festivals are organized, as well as chamber music concerts held in churches. Following the fishing tradition, there are several well-known seafood restaurants. You can also find here a shop, bakery and other amenities. This small fishing town has preserved its peace and quiet until today.
